Trend Alert: Doggy DNA Parties!

Our pets are a huge part of our lives, and for many people, their pets are truly considered part of the family. A recent trend has been taking over called breed reveal parties aka dog DNA parties. They have their rescue dog's DNA tested to determine what breed (or breeds) they actually are, and celebrate with a party, similar to a gender reveal party you might have for a baby.

These parties are very fun and they're a great way to encourage the adoption of rescue dogs. It's easy to throw your own dog breed reveal party or dog DNA party. Decorate your space with photos that illustrate your history with your beloved pet, and make sure to host it outside so that your friends can bring their pups too! Serve cute canine-themed treats for both two and four-legged friends, and you have the recipe for a special dog breed reveal party.

Rescue Spotlight: Feline Friends NH

Every so often we take the time out to highlight the life-saving work of rescues in our area. They work tirelessly to make a difference in the lives of people and animals everyday and we think they deserve recognition, no matter how small it may seem. This month we are gracious for the work of Feline Friends New Hampshire (FFNH), a rescue and adoption league working towards making a difference for felines.

The non-profit is an all-volunteer organization that does not have a shelter but has dedicated foster homes and adoption days at the local Petsmart. Founded in 1995 by Lori Leone, FFNH has evolved to provide a multitude of services including low-cost spay and neuter services, free spay services for mother cats, and T-N-R assistance. Since its humble beginnings, it has rescued and adopted thousands of homeless cats thanks to the compassionate people that open their hearts and homes to cats in need, similar organizations that also work with cats, and others.

If you'd like to support FFNH consider volunteering, donating, fostering, or donating supplies. Visit them at <http://felinefriendsnh.com> to learn more!

Cats are some of the most the planet, and they're hilarious antics. In sweet and silly, they're which can make for some grew up with a cat who friendly - she loved wanted to cuddle. In tall men with deep voices, respected my dad as the hilarious animals on always getting into addition to being also very protective, weird cat moments. I was extremely everyone and always particular, she loved and she always man of the house.

She would also get very excited when our grandpa came over, or more interestingly, when we had repairmen come to fix the internet or the dishwasher.

On one occasion, a repairman came over to install a new refrigerator, and my cat got very excited. She came over to him and started meowing, purring, and rubbing his legs, trying to get him to pet her. My mom offered to move her to a different room so the repairman could work, but he was completely charmed by her and picked her up to give her some pets. She then chose that occasion to start doing what we called the 'face mash' - she would head butt the person on the nose to show how much she loved them. Fortunately, the repairman didn't mind too much, and my cat made a new friend that day.

COOKIE RECIPE FOR BUNNIES

1/3 cup Frozen Raspberries, de-thawed
1/2 Tbsp Dried mint
1/3 cup Rabbit Pellets
3 Tbsp Old Fashion Oats

Preheat oven to 375 degrees
With a fork, mash raspberries together
Mix raspberries with mint.
Grind pellets (use a coffee grinder only used to make rabbit treats)

OR you could mix with tiny bits of water slowly crushing it with a fork into a crushed pellet mixture (tiny drops of water at a time)

Mix with oats. Slowly add dry mixture to raspberry, mint mixture until well blended together. Using a teaspoon measuring spoon, spoon out onto a cookie sheet covered in parchment paper (it prevents sticking and doesn't add any grease)
Flatten cookies with a fork to about 1/4" thick

Cook for 20 minutes or until brown on bottom. Let cool (For a crunchier treats, turn off oven and leave in until stove cools)

Once cooled, place in sealed container or bag. Can be left out for about a week but to prevent spoiling, refrigerate or freeze treats!

Makes about 18-20 cookies
